

U.S. Air Force Fact Sheet

66th AIR BASE WING, HANSCOM AFB, MA

The 66th Air Base Wing at Hanscom Air Force Base, MA reports directly to the Electronic Systems Center.

Mission

The men and women of the 66th Air Base Wing provide outstanding services to over 3,000 active duty, Reserve and National Guard military personnel and DoD civilians who work and live at Hanscom Air Force Base. Additionally, the 66 ABW supports over 100,000 retired military personnel, annuitants and spouses living in the seven-state New England area.

The Air Base Wing provides vital services to authorized Department of Defense personnel and their dependents: medical, educational, financial, legal and recreational services. The 66 ABW provides the best possible support, services and infrastructure that enables the Electronic Systems Center, Air Force Research Lab, MIT/Lincoln Labs and tenant units to excel in their missions.

Organization

The installation commander is Colonel Timothy Ceteras, commander, 66th Air Base Wing. The wing is organized into three primary areas: a Mission Support Group, Medical Group and the Wing Staff.
